With F.M.L.

Once in a while, you need to take a look at yourself in the mirror and laugh at what you see . . .

I tried this the other day, and the guy in the mirror laughed back. And it made the day.

112-112-112

There is coincidence enough in life that it would seem the unpredictable is normal.

One of the coincidences of 112's young life is living in a Central Texas town that produced one of the eminent journalism scholars of this generation.

He is James Markham, whose Phd in journalism coincided in presentation with the bachelor's ol' Mizzou leveled on me in the '50s. At the time, I knew nothing of Cameron.

Research and books are enjoyable and important to some of us, but to Jim Markham, a graduate of the University of Texas, Austin, in journalism, they have become a distinguished way of life.

Believe it or not (sorry, Ripley, if I lean on you), he taught two courses I had as an undergraduate, one in history, subbing for the twice-winner of a Pulitzer, Dean Frank Luther Mott, now deceased, and law of the press. And what Jim Markham teaches he knows.

Some few years ago, this column noted his achievements, but they are added to by his leadership in journalism academe and professional organization. His doctoral thesis was so good, it was published as a book about an editor by the name of Bovard, one of the greats of the early St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

He has written numerous other volumes on the press, including the Russian press, readership studies, monographs, papers in important succession. He has held office in national and international journalism academic groups, done analysis for press associations, chaired seminars in Europe and otherwise led an activist life outside his academic base as professor of journalism and head of graduate journalism at the University of Iowa.

He is the brother of Mrs. John (Grace) Davis, of Cameron. He is quiet, confident, of high professional scruple, a man who loves his children, a believer in what he does.

And Jim is deserving of the accolades he has earned. They came hard at times. He worked as a reporter for some large Texas dailies years ago, before he decided teaching and research were his forte.

When a man is asked to lecture in Mott's place at Missouri before he has his doctorate, his stature and potential are clearly drawn.

About eight years ago, Jim wanted to return to Texas, but the right post, one he was capable of filling, failed to materialize. So he took the post at Iowa City, where he now resides.

Beside drawing upon Jim's knowledge in those two subjects, 112 has feebly attempted to emulate his expertise in readership studies. The best, and little enough, is convincing a hard-nosed newspaper committee a few weeks ago that public notice needs studying, by outline at least, at the national level, and in fact, on the state and local level. Results are awaited.

Jim would do the job better. A lot better.

We corresponded a few times through the years, while he was engrossed in this career. He is the kind of guy who takes time, as he once did, to get the opinion of an expert on a subject in which he had little or no interest. That's why he is a professor and author. People count with him, though he is not, as I know him, an extrovert.

Milam Countians would recall Jim Markham as the son of Doc Markham, formerly a county commissioner. Home towns have a way of remembering the boy and never knowing the man, though he may live and die there.

Jim Markham grew up. And in his late 50's, in his quiet, confident way, he is a hell of a man.

He taught some insights that have helped this ol' newspaper in Cameron, his hometown. And in this sense, he has helped Milam County, if this ol' newspaper is of any value.

It is only coincidence, one of many in a lifetime, I suppose, but it enabled two Mizzou types to become friends. And beside many other things he is, Jim Markham is a friend.

That is quite a reward from a coincidence . . . the kind that counts.

Christmas Party Set For Saturday

The Chamber of Commerce community Christmas party will be held Saturday, December 4 starting at 6:30 p.m. on the library lawn.

Groups from several local churches will sing traditional Christmas music. A children's choir will also sing, and there will be solos by Mrs. Maurina Corley and Rev. Pete McCabe.

In case of rain, the affair will be held in Yoe gym.

It's Time For Santa Letters

It's time for Santa letters!

Each year The Herald publishes hundreds of letters to Santa Claus written by area youngsters. The letters are featured in our annual Christmas edition.

First through fourth graders may send their letters through their schools. Pre-schoolers may send the letter to Santa in care of The Herald and we will see that old Santa gets a copy of the paper with the letters.

Police Investigate Minor Accidents

Several minor accidents were investigated by City Police over the weekend, with no injuries reported.

Three accidents occurred Friday, the first at 10:15 a.m. A car driven by Mary Paula Garcia of Cameron collided with a car driven by Henry Horelica of Cameron at the intersection of Crockett and Main.

At about 12:35 p.m. the doorway of the Masonic Lodge on North Houston was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Viola Sullivan of Cameron when she attempted to back out of a parking space.

Cars driven by William James Mueck Jr. and Clarence Curtis, both of Cameron, collided at the intersection of North Central and West 6th also on Friday, about 5:55 p.m. No injuries were reported.

On Sunday an accident was reported at the intersection of Highway 190 and Farm Road 2269 when a collision occurred between cars driven by Kelly Albritton of Belton and Mrs. Florence Markham of Cameron. Again no injuries were reported.

In several county accidents over the weekend, only one person was reported injured in a one-car accident between Maysfield and Branchville at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

In the accident a car driven by a Ft. Hood soldier hit a bridge. The injured man was taken to a Hearne hospital and then transferred to Darnall Army Hospital at Ft. Hood. The extent of his injuries was not known.

Other accidents reported included a one-car accident at Pettibone Saturday, a one-car accident near Rockdale Saturday, and a cow-car accident Sunday. No injuries were reported.

PTA To Meet

The Cameron PTA will meet Thursday, December 2 at 7:30 in Ben Milam Cafetorium. Mrs. Thomas Dusek and students will be in charge of Christmas music.

Rep. Kubiak Attends National Policy Meet

State Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale has been selected as one of seven House members to represent Texas at the National Foreign Policy Conference being held in Washington, D. C. at the Department of State on December 2 and 3.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers has designated Rep. Kubiak to participate in the Environmental Conference dealing with problems of pollution in land, air and water.

Kubiak will join legislators from throughout the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic in the foreign policy conference. The delegates will receive briefings from top State Department officials concerning the nation's foreign policies in the Middle East and Southeast Asia, in addition to an up-dating of new policies toward Red China and Taiwan.

The meeting will be climaxed with a final conference on the population explosion problem and methods of handling the problem and feeding the hungry of the world.

All the information at the conference will be compiled for presentation to the next session of the Legislature.

Others attending the meeting will be Representatives Bill Clayton of Springlake, Ben Bynum of Amarillo, Joe C. Hanna of Breckenridge, Dick McKissack of Dallas, Carl A. Parker of Port Arthur, and Henry Sanchez of Brownsville.

Police To Shoot Loose City Dogs

Dogs running loose in the city will be shot, according to an announcement by Cameron Police Chief Felipe Martinez.

"We are getting too many complaints about dogs, and the city has a leash law that we will enforce," the chief said. Dog owners are advised to keep their dogs tied up or confined in the yard.

The city's leash law requires that dogs must not be allowed to run loose in the streets, and must be tied up.

The chief said the stray dogs shot will be picked up the same day by city maintenance trucks.

Greeting Cards Swell Post Office Business

More people are sending more Christmas cards than ever before despite the rising cost of greeting cards and postal rate increases according to Narvie Caperton, Cameron Postmaster. In fact the Christmas greeting card business is so large that the local post office ordered 100,000 holiday issue stamps this season.

"People are sending more cards, but fewer packages," Caperton noted. He said it wasn't that they were giving fewer gifts, but that more people were hand carrying Christmas presents. "Years ago people didn't visit out-of-town as much," Caperton said. "Now with good roads people are more inclined to drive 100 to 150 miles for a Christmas visit and as a result we don't handle as many parcels."

Caperton said that for the first time this Christmas, mail going out of town will not carry a Cameron postmark. "Only mail for local delivery is stamped here," Caperton said. "All out-of-town bound mail from Milam County post offices is dispatched in Temple." The postmark will read "U.S. Postal Service, Texas 765."

At one time there were 23 individual post offices handling Christmas mail in Milam County, and that was back when you could post a Christmas greeting for 3 cents. Presently only 9 Milam County towns have a post office.

Post offices at Ad Hall, Baileyville, Ben Arnold, Branchville, Clarkson, Gardner, Hanover, Jones Prairie, Lilac, Nile, Salty, San Gabriel and Yarrellton have been closed. Only remaining postal stations are Cameron, Buckholts, Burlington, Davilla, Gause, Maysfield, Milano, Rockdale, Thorndale and Minerva.

Caperton said parcels for Christmas delivery should be mailed this week, out-of-town greeting cards should be mailed by December 15.

Eight-cent Christmas stamps which are now on sale come in two varieties - conventional and religious. Caperton said all greeting cards must have a 8-cent stamp whether sealed or not.

"We are urging people to seal their greetings cards because they are easier to handle," Caperton said, "And we encourage everyone to include a return address." He said thousands of greeting cards end up in a dead letter file each year because they do not have a return address.

Caperton also said that parcels addressed to foreign countries are now being accepted by the post office. He said packages being held at the local station had been forwarded earlier this week when the embargo on overseas mail was lifted.

The local post office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 to 9 a.m. on Saturday.

Use Of Brain, Muscles, Slows Aging Processes

By Marsha Dubrow
Reuter Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS

The more the brain and muscles are used the less they age, according to a Soviet report entitles "The Right to Old Age." issued at U. N. headquarters in New York.

The report released this month cites the examples of a 165-year-old man in Soviet Azerbaidjan and a 130-year-old man in Abkhazia who continue to work on the land.

Other major factors are the environment and, primarily, one's way of life, the report said.

"Work and play, eating and sleeping, socio-economic conditions, climate -- can have a profound effect on the adaptability of the aging organism," it continued.

The study is based on more than 21,000 elderly persons, of whom 19,245 were between 80 and 90 years old, and 415 were more than 100 years old. The studies were conducted over several years. The report was prepared by Prof. Dimitrii Cebotarev, director of the Soviet Union's Institute of Gerontology -- the study of old age and its diseases.

"Accepting the principle that an active long life is something natural is an important point . . . (which) should supercede the idea, still largely held, that old age is a disease." he wrote.

Prof. Cebotarev said in the report that the very old -- over 85 -- years -- "are nearly always persons of basically sound health, with great capacity for adapting the regulating functions of the organism."

The study added: "Great importance must also be placed on the mental condition of the aged, and on the maintenance of their authority both in the family and in the community."

The professor, who is a member of the USSR Medical Adademy, noted that longevity could possibly run in families. He cited another Soveit study which showed that in an over-65 group, 28 to 40 per cent of their blood relations had lived 80 years or more.

"Longevity is more common in rural areas, and particularly among people who have had uninterrupted physical activity from their earliest youth to the last stages of their lives." he wrote.

Developments in gerontology could open the way to a longer life by removing the causes of early death and also by slowing down the aging process, he said.

The proportion of population above 60 years old has grown to more than 20 per cent in some countries.

I'. . . changes are thus necessary in the social system, in the organization of medical care and in the very outlook of the state and of the community towards old people."

Recently published U.N. statistics for 170 countries showed that there were 11,-765,000 people over 70 years old in the world.

Prof. Gebotarev also said that "the principles and practices of gerontology can only be applied in a society based on humane principles, which feels it owes a debt to the people who played a decisive role in the economic, social and cultural progress from which the younger generation benefits."

Thanks, Jake...

Thanks, Jake Elliott, for seeing what all the downtown renewal really is ... not only a bold step into the future, but step literally "saving" what can be saved of downtown Cameron.

A native of Cameron and presently of Lafayette, La., Mr. Elliott tells it like it was in Lake Charles in a reprint accompanying his letter on this page. (See Letters.)

His quote from the Sunday Iberian, a newspaper, tells what occurred in that Louisiana city, though larger, after renewal was complete.

If we but could bring enough imaginations together to see not the old bricks and boards coming down, but the spaciousness and contemporary lines going in, we would ease those few who believe, somehow, a leveled ruin is what we seek.

What we seek is reconstruction, which is already occurring in remodeled fronts and interiors in numerous blocks, even outside the designated area.

Jake Elliott sees it because he has seen it. And he is kind enough to speak what is becoming a dramatic truth wherever foresight and planning join.

We would exchange this new reality for the description of The Iberian article of so many downtowns, not only Cameron's:

QUOTE: Rotting decaying, disintegrating central business districts is a calamity haunting many cities across the country ... END QUOTE.

No longer ours, we hasten to add.

Thanks again, Jake.

Life Beyond Earth...

You can be insular if you choose, but American TV viewers are seeing in recent evenings space movies which are no longer remote from the near future.

On consecutive evenings, two separate networks showed "Earth II" and "The Other Side of the Sun", both having to do with problems of space life, known and unknown.

"Earth II" focuses on an enormous space platform which is sovereign to itself, but becomes embroiled in earth's nuclear politics when a nuclear device is put in orbit nearby.

"On the Other Side of the Sun" views the improbable location of a planet, just like earth, only in reverse except for electrical polarity, behind our sun.

"Earth II" inhabitants have moved to space because weapons are forbidden and peace is the solution in conflict. Space travel is the main subject of "The Other Side..." and, so far as we now know, the science fiction of a planet identical to earth, like the reflection of a mirror, only "real".

Props in both films were based on or showed elements of NASA ideas or equipment, including the one case the cavernous building at Cape Kennedy where the Apollo rockets are tooled for moon flights. The space station in "Earth II" looks very much like representations, only larger perhaps, of what space stations will look like, off the drawing boards of NASA planners.

Though moon shots are less popular now because they have been mastered, public interest may be viewing the practical results of such effort because of continuous study of earth's present ecology.

"Buck Rogers", the comic strip hero of the 25th Century, went out of print a few years ago because of what he experienced from the artist's imagination actually occurs.

The people in these films are narrow gauged, highly trained people, surely an oversimplication to tell such futuristic stories.

But most of them survive their new environments, adaptable as people always have been to drastic variations in earth's elements.

This kind of entertainment used to be fun and escape. But it is now quite possibly instructional to the generations who experience the trauma and triumph of American and Russian space ventures and resulting influence of technology on all our earth lives.

Maybe a sterile, scientific environment beyond earth is an alternative we one day shall contemplate in earnest.

Hopefuls Crowd Stage Of 1972 Political Scene

By Bill Boykin

Gov. Preston Smith's decision to run for a third term drew sharp new attention to an increasingly-crowded and complex 1972 political scene.

Smith said he would seek vindication in stock-loan scandals. He plans to tell "over and over" that he killed (by veto) the bank deposit legislation urged by which the Legislature passed in 1969.

Meanwhile, former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough said odds are now 10-to-one he will be a candidate -- either for governor or the senate --next year. But he declined to indicate which race is most likely to attract him.

State Sen. Wayne Connally, youngest brother of U. S. Secretary of Treasury (and former Governor) John B. Connally, jumped into the Lieutenant governor's race. Connally is a conservative Democrat.

Harold (Barefoot) Sanders of Dallas reportedly is getting set to run for the U. S. Senate as a Democrat.

Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso indicated he will reveal at a dinner in his home town December 7 whether he will enter the lieutenant governor's race or stand for re-election.

Republicans, calling for a "top to bottom cleanup" in state government, began recruiting preliminaries, concentrating on the governor's race. (They already have a U. S. Senate candidate, incumbent John Tower.)

The Republicans, in an informal statewide poll of gubernatorial preferences, came up with S. Ross Perot, wealthy Dallas businessman, who is a political independent, as their favorite.

COURTS SPEAK -- Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a new law which allows those accused of crimes to waive rights to a grand jury indictment before trial in cases where the death penalty is not applicable.

In other recent cases the Court of Criminal Appeals held:

*That photographs of a bloody death scene are not automatically prohibited from consideration in murder trials.

*That a court is not to look beyond a bill as passed by the legislature to consider if the act creating a new trial court was duly submitted to a special legislative session by the governor.

COURT COST "SURTAX" PROFITABLE -- Some 716 cities and the 254 counties collected $335,348.70 during September from a new "surtax" on court costs earmarked for improving criminal justice.

Comptroller Robert S. Calvert reported on first collections under the law. Money will meet state and local matching fund needs for federal grants under the Omnibus Crime Control Act.

The new law provides an additional court cost assessment of $2.50 for a misdemeanor case conviction in a court where jurisdiction is limited to a $200 maximum fine and specifically includes traffic violations. It also directs a $5 additional charge on other misdemeanor convictions and $10 for felony convictions, to be collected as other fines or costs in cases.

AUTO LICENSE OBJECTION WITHDRAWN -- A new Texas Motor Vehicle Commission member withdrew his protest to licensing of a competitive auto dealer in Corpus Christi.

Jack McKenzie pulled down his objection to TMVC's granting a regular license to Barton-Grubbs Volkswagen, which began operations in Corpus Christi three months ago. McKenzie who operates a VW dealership, said he remains convinced he proved that a competitor in the city was not needed for several years. But he conceded, "reasonable men may differ on the facts presented..."

December 1 was the deadline set by the new Motor Vehicle Commission act for new car dealers, distributors, manufacturers and factory representatives to get required state licenses.

BOLLWORM WARNING ISSUED -- Unless the pink bollworm is controlled within the next few weeks, heavy losses, if not complete ruin, can be expected for the cotton crop in North and Central Texas, the state agriculture department warns.

Commissioner John C. White said farmers must take immediate steps to destroy cotton stalks and plow under debris as quickly as rains will permit.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

At the moment I don't know what the final outcome will be, but Congress has been considering a bill to finance Presidential campaigns with tax money.

Like it is, as you know, Presidential candidates have to raise millions of dollars to finance their campaigns, and they get the money from private contributions.

I have never contributed any money to a candidate, but being a member of the human race, if I gave one a sizeable amount I'd probably have something else in mind other than seeing him elected. And if I were a candidate and got elected, it'd be might hard for me to forget who picked up the check. A man doesn't give a loaded cigar to a banker who has just extended his loan.

So, Congress has been trying to stop the practice. It's proposing that everybody designate one dollar on his income tax for financing Presidential campaigns. This would raise forty some odd million dollars, with say 20 million going to the Republicans, 20 million to the Democrats, and possibly 5 million to any third party. If a party accepted the money, it couldn't accept any private contributions.

This looks like a good idea except maybe to the big lobbyists, but I've got an added suggestion. Instead of taking just one dollar from your income tax, how about making it two and using the extra 40 million to pay some candidates not to run?

Some people might object to giving one dollar to help get some candidates elected, but where's the man who doesn't know a candidate he wouldn't give two dollars not to run?

This is enough about politics. Out of a clear sky a man asked me the other day what I thought of mini-skirts. A mini-skirt is like a bicycle. It's all right in the summertime but it's pretty drafty in the winter time.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sirs:

In reconstructing the down town part of Cameron I know there was a lot of skepticism in the final outcome, as is always the case. Should you want to print the enclosed clippings, I feel would probably ease some of the negative attitude that a lot of people in Cameron have at this time.

I would like to say thanks to all of the real dedicated people that are helping in saving our home town.

Warm Regards
Jake Elliott

OPERATION HEARTBEAT FOR DOWNTOWN

Rotting, decaying, disintegrating central business districts is a calamity haunting many cities across the country...

One medium sized city, Lake Charles -- population 78,000 -- recognized the problem and did something about it.

In fact today the program is all but completed and the downtown area is feeling a new exuberance from a thorough face lifting.

Affected merchants are happy with modernized stores and increased business. And the buying public has acclaimed it is a miracle.

They called it Operation Heartbeat. It was an example of leadership, cooperation and dedication on the part of a real team of citizens, professionals and public officals.

County Agent's Notes

No DES Residue Left In Beef

By Bill McCutchen

How do you like your steak? -- Whether you like it "rare" or "well done" Americans are enjoying more steak than ever before but the well meaning and misled public is asking for less beef and higher beef prices.

There has been a lot of clamor for the withdrawal of diethylstilbestrol (DES) from the market. DES is a hormone used in many young animals to stimulate growth and is used as a feed additive in most feedlot operations.

In addition to providing a growth stimulant it enhances the feed conversion and the lean to fat ratio in beef, thus enabling beef to be produced much more cheaply than otherwise possible. Much of this gain in efficiency is passed on to the consumer.

DES residues are prohibited by law in meat for human consumption and this is checked closely by the Food and Drug Administration. This means that the beef you get has no residual.

As an extra precaution withdrawal time of DES from livestock rations prior to slaughter has been extended to seven days. Withdrawal time had previously been 48 hours.

This ecology movement is fine and I'm all for it but lets be sure we know what we are talking about and the consequences before we condemn a proven practice.

SOIL SAMPLES

Now is a good time to take soil samples in preparation for next springs crops. By taking samples now you will have ample opportunity to plan fertilizer purchases and applications and this can be profitable.

Soil sampling makes sense. Why apply more of a nutrient than is needed, or who sacrifice yields because you have one element limiting production? The time and money spent on soil samples is the best money a farmer or rancher can spend. It really doesn't cost, it pays!

WHEN TO FERTILIZE

Fall and winter applications of nitrogen should be limited for field crops such as cotton, corn and grain sorghum. For maximum efficiency in nitrogen utilization only a minimal amount of nitrogen should be applied in the fall because of the possibilities of leaching and denitrification, either of which could cause severe loss of nitrogen.

Results from recent studies conducted at several widely separated points within the state seem to indicate that the best response from nitrogen is obtained when only a small amount is band placed, with all the phosporus and/or potassium, deep in the seedbed at the time of final seedbed preparation.

The beds are then left undisturbed, except for weed control, until planting time. The tops of the beds are "knocked off" and the seed placed so that the roots of the seedlings will intercept the fertilizer band in the first few days of growth.

After a satisfactory stand has been obtained, the remainder of the nitrogen requirement is sidedressed. Sidedressing should be done between the second and fourth week of growth to obtain maximum efficiency. Nitrogen in the sidedress application should be put in the soil.

I do not wish to imply that early application of nitrogen is hopeless, but I would like to point out that certain hazards are involved and that caution should be taken to avoid excessive losses before the nitrogen is needed by the crop.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

By Danny Phillips

The Milam County 4-H Council met in their regular monthly session Monday November 22 at the Rockdale State Bank in Rockdale. Chairman Joseph Jistel presided over the meeting.

Reports on the awards banquets were given by Deborah Stephens and Paula Fleming. Club reports were presented by Paula Fleming, Cameron Club; Peggy Stephens, Rockdale Club; John Caffey, Thorndale Club and Rufus Lamere, Minerva Club.

The Council members voted to hold the annual Christmas party December 21 at Cameron. Delegates are contacting sources to arrange for square dancing, games and refreshments. No gifts will be exchanged this year.

Also in other action Monday, the council voted to continue with the concession stand at the Jr. Livestock Show and schedules will be sent to clubs in January.

A budget committee and a standing rules committee was also established. The meeting was adjourned at 5:30 p.m.

PROJECTS

Milam County 4-H'ers are preparing for the Milam County Junior Livestock Show that will be coming up very soon in January. The show is always a big event for 4-H'ers and FFA members in Milam County. The show offers good prize money for the participants based on ribbon color classification, plus good competition. The show date has not been set but will probably be set at a meeting in early December.

It's already time for 4-H'ers to be thinking of projects, especially beef projects for 1973 shows. With the increase in competition and numbers of animals at all livestock shows, the demand for quality calves is great and supplies become exhausted quickly.

Calves born from July-September are usually needed now in order to get the size and maturity needed to win a show.

Many of the shows have dropped the open shows, except for carcass classes and breeding classes, and have added several breeds to the Junior show. This year for instance, the Simmental and Brangus have been added at several shows.

If you are interested in getting a calf, lets get going now. It takes a lot of hard work and time to produce the type of calf needed to win. Don't undertake the project if you don't desire to work hard.

Peanut Growers To Vote In Mail Referendum

WASHINGTON

The U. S. Department of Agriculture today announced a mail referendum by peanut growers engaged in the production of peanuts in calendar year 1971 will be held Dec. 6-10, 1971, to determine whether marketing quotas will be applicable for the crop of peanuts to be produced in calendar years 1972, 1973, and 1974.

USDA also announced a national marketing quota of 1,634,150 tons and a national allotment of 1,610,000 acres for the 1972 crop.

At least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum must approve quotas if they are to be made effective. Whether or not quotas are approved, the 1972 crop peanut acreage allotments will remain in effect as a means of determining eligibility for price support.

Quotas will be in effect in each of the three years if at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum favor them. Growers who comply with their allotments will be eligibge for price support at a rate to be announced later. Noncompliance farmers will receive no price support and marketing penalties will apply to any excess peanuts produced.

If more than one-third of the voters oppose, quotas and penalties will not be in effect for 1972 crop peanuts. Price support available to growers who comply with their acreage allotments will drop to 50 percent of parity and another referendum will be held in 1972 to determine if marketing quotas will be in effect for the following three years.

Sugar-And-Spice Nuts For Christmas Holiday Treats

By Christine Laws, County Home Demonstration Agent

Mixed nuts - Currunch! Get out the nutcrackers! Fall weather is here and with the holidays coming -- it's time to enjoy mixed nuts in the shell. Almonds, filberts, and walnuts from the West Coast, pecans from Texas and Brazil nuts from Brazil make up the handy packages you'll find in your market.

Several companies that package mixed nuts in the shell use the U.S. Department of Agriculture's continuous inspection service to assure the quality of the nuts they package for consumers. You'll find the USDA shield with the grade -- U.S. Extra Fancy or U.S. Fancy -- on packages of mixed nuts of the highest quality.

Nuts may also be purchases shelled, for instance, cashews are only sold this way. Shelled nuts are sold raw or roasted and, sometimes, blanched. Roasted nuts may be salted, unsalted or spiced. Shelled nuts may be purchased ground, or in whole kernels, broken pieces, slivers and slices.

Shelled nuts are available in bulk and in plastic bags, glass jars and cans of various sizes. Labels on the containers show the weight and sometimes, the cup measurement.

Try these Sugar-And-Spice Nuts for special treats during the holidays:

- 1 tablespoon butter or margerine, melted
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- 2 cups unroasted almonds, walnuts and pecans
- 1 cup sugar
- 1-1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 3/4 teaspoon allspice

Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. (slow). Slowly stir melted butter or margarine into beaten egg white. Stir in nuts. Mix sugar and spices.

Spread about one-fourth of the sugar mixture in a 10x15-inch shallow baking pan. Coat a few nuts at a time in remaining sugar mixture, and arrange in the pan. Sprinkle rest of sugar mixture over nuts. Bake 15 to 20 minutes, or until nuts are lightly browned. Remove nuts from oven; stir gently to separate nuts. Cool. Store in tightly closed container. Makes about 4 cups nuts.

SpeedwayReady For Sunday Race

COLLEGE STATION

Preparations for the most spectacular weekend of auto racing in Texas history begins Wednesday at the new Texas World Speedway and the action hits fever pitch next Saturday afternoon when the first of three big races takes to the speedy two-mile trioval.

The greatest stock car drivers in the world registered Wednesday and begin qualifying runs Thursday for the $80,000 Texas NASCAR Grand National race, Sunday's headline event that climaxes the action-packed program.

Saturday's preliminary action includes the $18,000 Texas Permatex 200 Late Model Sportsman battle over the trioval, beginning at 1:00 p.m. The unique Alamo 200, a $10,000 IMSA road race for sports cars and GT-type cars will get the starting signal at nine o'clock Saturday night.

Sunday's rich 500 miler, one of only three major events in the nation that opens the starting field to the 50 fastest qualifiers, will bet the starter's flag at 1:00 p.m., kicking off the final event on NASCAR's Winston Cup Championship tour.

An impressive list of guest celebrities will join the competitors when the action begins at the recently revamped facility...and a couple of them will be doing double duty.

Astronaut Pete Conrad, who was appointed to serve as President' Nixon's personal representative to the event will be the Grand Marshal for Sunday's main attraction. The famous spaceman will also be driving in Saturday night's Alamo 200.

Singer Marty Robbins, a long-time Texas favorite, will also be on the list of competitors. The popular entertainer will drive a Dodge in Sunday's $80,000 500-miler.

PEST CONTROL BOARD

The Texas Structural Pest Control Board has been created to develop standards for licensing structural pest control operators and to regulate methods of pest control to prevent adverse effects on human life and the environment. Structural pest control operators must be licensed with the board before December 7, says Dr. Philip Hamman, Extension entomologist.

Whoopers Make It To Refuge

Fifty of the world's rarest birds have safely reached their wintering area on the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, it was announced today by Regional Director W. O. Nelson, Jr. of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

Forty seven adult and three juvenile whooping cranes have made the 2,000 mile flight from the breeding ground in Wood Buffalo Park in northern Canada according to results of the latest aerial census of the Gulf Coast sanctuary.

The whoopers have staged a dramatic fight against extinction, and have increased from a low of 15 birds in 1941 to last spring's high of 57.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Trim Dorsal Fins

When scaling a fish, use scissors to trim off the dorsal fin. This will save many a scratch or getting stabbed with a sharp fin. Such wounds can cause infections.

Fish Like The Shade

In lake fishing always try a few casts around any boat that has been anchored in one spot for several days. Big lunker bass like to lie in the shadows of these boats.

Metal Stringer For Drag

A metal-chain fish-stringer with all hooks open is useful in retrieving a rod and reel dropped overboard. Drag it back and forth over the spot. The open hooks will snag your lost gear.

Private landowners planted 1,206,700 acres of forest in 1970.

Everybody and his cousin too . . . notice the lone man in the foreground of the picture. He must be wondering if he will ever get his shopping done. Even with his back to us he looks confused and bewildered.

Most of us have felt the pangs of loneliness in the midst of a crowd. Surrounded by people, we couldn't escape that feeling of utter desolation. It may engulf us in a busy department store, a crowded supermarket, a jam-packed subway, but suddenly it strikes . . . this feeling that no one cares about us or about our burdens.

When our hearts cry out for assurance that somebody cares, we can always turn to the truth and love revealed by the Holy Word of God: "Lo, I am with you alway."

At the heart of the universe there are great resources of strength. Discover them for yourself by worshipping each week in the church of your choice.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Child Advocacy

Two agencies of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare are combining resources and funds to test a new concept, known as child advocacy, that is expected to increase public awareness of the social, educational, and emotional needs of children.

The two agencies are the Office of Education's Bureau of Education for the Handicapped and the Health Services and Mental Health Administration's National Institute of Mental Health.

To start, the two are funding six innovative child advocacy demonstration projects, totaling $656,000, in California, Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, and Texas.

Dr. Sidney P. Marland, Jr., U.S. Commissioner of Education, points out that the program is being developed for preventive and remedial services on the neighborhood level with the services designed to contribute to children's emotional development.

As Dr. Marland says, parents, the child's natural advocates, may be unable to find resources in the community to meet their child's needs. This often results in the child's failing in school or dropping out. The six pilot projects will seek to develop test programs to solve problems like this and to help especially the child with a handicapping condition.

"I can think of no more startling fact," says Dr. Marland, "than the one which is involved in this statistic: only 40 percent of the handicapped children in the United States receive any special education at all; and the estimates of children completely excluded from educational programming range from a half-million to a million."

There are, of course, numerous federal, state, and local agencies and private organizations concerned with the welfare of our children. But these services have been fragmented, have gaps, and are too often uncoordinated. So, far too few children get the benefits.

Through collaborative efforts, such as this new one for pilot projects in child advocacy, we can attack the problems of child development from all fronts simultaneously. In this lies a great deal of hope and promise for the well-being of our children.
